

The Bookworm

Newsletter of Bradley Books™

Issue 1 www.bradleyboosstore.com September 2025

Newsletter Launched

Welcome to the premiere issue of the Bookworm, our bimonthly newsletter. If you would rather not receive this in your email, just reply to the email that this arrived in with the word "STOP." Back issues will be available on our website.

YouTube Video

Watch for a YouTube video this week on our website, with a quiz about the above flag, and see a promo code to get a 20% discount on purchase of my new book, Bradley Family History: 1627-present, if you buy it from BookLocker.com. (video compliments of BookLocker Publishing).

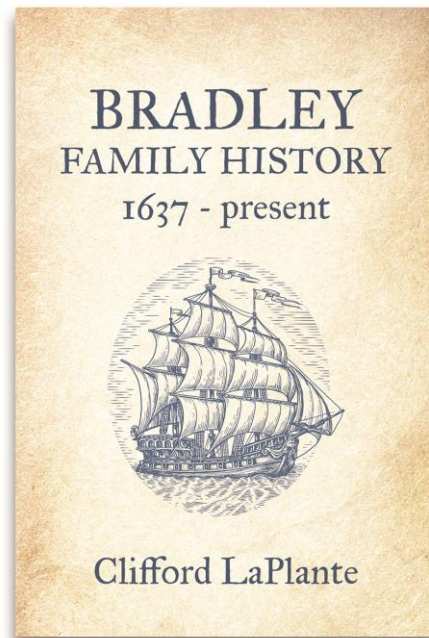

Another Book?

Several people have asked if I am going to write another book, short answer is yes. I have learned much about writing, publishing, and the marketing of books in 2025. I have several ideas about both topic and format for the next one. I am doing a little preliminary research to narrow down the possibilities.

Clifford LaPlante

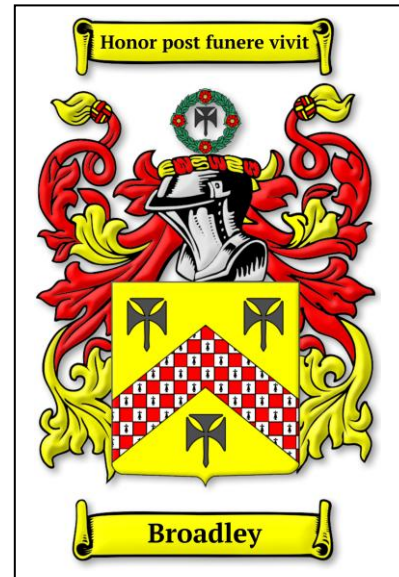

Bookstore Open

Our online bookstore is now open for business, and we processed our first order today! We specialize in publications about American History & Genealogy, with a focus on New England. We accept credit/debit cards and PayPal. New books being added to the store often. See article on page 2 of the Bookworm for new items coming to store for the following month. If you have suggestions or special requests for books, just let us know.

Book Update

- Goes to printer week of September 15th.
- Pre-Orders available once it does.
- Kindle version will be available on Amazon
- Hardcover available in about two weeks

Possible "Bradley"
English Coat of Arms
[unverified]

Bradley Family News

It is with sorrow that I share that Sarah (Sally) Louise Gamble, of Washington D.C., has died. Sally was a fellow Bradley family descendant and Bradley family historian, and we have corresponded and compared notes for many, many years. She was active in many Social Causes and historical organizations and had a full life. She had just recently reached her 100th birthday and In am told she passed quickly and peacefully. Rest in Peace Sally, you will be missed. Cliff

Coming in October

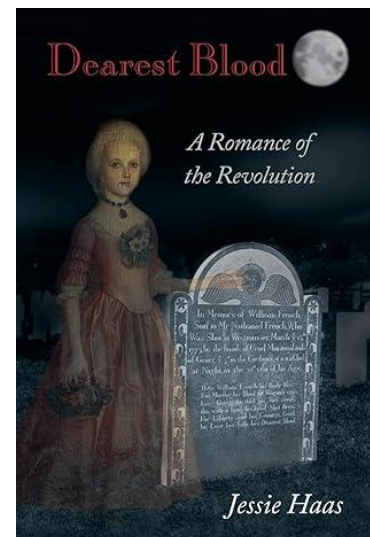

- Halloween & scary Book SALE

Coming in November

- Mayflower Book Specials all month.
- Black Friday SALE
- A pre-holiday Surprise

Our September Recommended Read:

- Historical Fiction
- Based on real events
- Set in New England
- A Unique Romance story

Available in our bookstore